The Commission for Environmental Cooperation (CEC) is an international organization created by the Governments of the United States, Canada, and Mexico through the North American Agreement on Environmental Cooperation. The CEC facilitates cooperation among the three countries to conserve, protect, and enhance the North American environment, promote sustainable development, and support the environmental goals and objectives of the North American Free Trade Agreement. Since 1994, the CEC has advanced environmental and ecosystems protection, sustainability, information capacity, compliance and enforcement of environmental laws; public participation and transparency.

The CEC Council, composed by the environment ministers of the three countries, meets annually. Administrator Pruitt is hosting and chairing the 24th Regular Session of the Council in OKC on June 26-27 with a focus on "Innovation and Partnerships for Green Growth." At the end of the closing dinner hosted at the Mansion by Administrator Pruitt, Mexico's Secretary Pacchiano assumes the chairmanship of the Council.
